Debrief: If the researchers anesing deception or incomplete disclosure (iære not stating exactly what the study is about so as not to bias participants responses), then it is important to include a debriefing form at the end of the survet bis debriefing form could be embedded into the last page of the survey and would require participants to answer a final question allowing researchers to use their data (or not use their data) now that they know the true purpose of the studyFor more information on debriefingsee IRB SOP 803: Behavioral and Social Science Research

Note: For particularly sensitive topics, the IRB may want to ensure that participants receive a debriefing form, even if they do not complete the full study (itleey click out before the end of the survey). The USA IRB debriefing forms are located in IRB others and templates.

This might mean contacting participants (ough MTurk) and providing them a debriefing former this is softwithing that (with happen for your 1study, it sound be find on the high and in the informed consent that the researchers will be providing participants wh additional information after the study and that they may contact